Menalind® professional
Early preventive care system
specially designed for mature skin.

Healthy skin promotes well-being.

Skin health plays a central role in our general well-being. But the older the skin becomes, the more care it requires. This applies especially to care-dependent elderly people. Elderly skin is subject to particular stresses and strains. It loses elasticity due to dryness and is no longer able to perform its natural protective functions properly. Incontinence and bed confinement increase the problem still further. Failure to protect the skin with special care products may result in skin damage. It then becomes difficult to feel good in one's skin.

So it is wise to put elderly skin care in professional hands as early as possible: Menalind professional – the early preventive skin care system.

The benefits of Menalind® professional.

In the development of the new Menalind professional range, emphasis was placed on the practical application and synergy of protective and caring components. The result is a specially balanced and innovative system of vitalising creatine and moisturising panthenol. So Menalind professional supports the skin's natural functions and maintains the health of stressed elderly skin.

INNOVATION 2004

Skin protection formula with creatine

Creatine for protection.

The innovative active ingredient creatine has a significant effect on maintaining the health of elderly skin that has become stressed or irritated due to incontinence and bed confinement. It stimulates the energy exchange rate of skin that declines with age and thereby supports the skin's natural functional mechanisms.

However creatine can do more than this. It surrounds the skin cells and protects them from external attack. So irritated skin is protected against further damage.

Panthenol for moisture.

Panthenol is of major importance in maintaining the skin's moisture balance. It not only provides moisture, but also ensures that this moisture is absorbed into the skin.

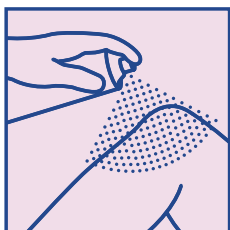

Clear and simple: the right product to hand.

The Menalind professional early preventive skin care range provides not only carefully balanced active ingredient combinations, but also a complete skin care system that combines mild cleansing, effective protection and special care for sensitive or irritated elderly skin. The practical and time-saving product application is facilitated by colour coding to enable quick and simple identification of the right product.

Blue for cleansing

All skin care first requires mild cleansing. This is important for further skin protection or skin care measures.

Pink for protection

The protective products from the early preventive skin care system provide defence against damaging external influences.

Yellow for care

Menalind professional care products are moisturising and have refatting properties at different degrees of intensity. Panthenol and creatine soothe the skin.
